HOW MORTGAGES ARE RETIRED UNDER NEW U. S. FARM LOAN ACT

Member of Federal Bureau Explains
Gradual Retirement of Mortgages.

By Frank B. Wilson of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau.

Washington, Jan. 17.—One of the features of the Federal Farm Loan act which makes a strong appeal to farmers is that it compels them gradually to retire their indebtedness, through a long or short period of years.

This process is called amortization, and if the interest and principal are paid off in equal annual or semi-annual installments throughout the period of the loan so that at the end of the term of the mortgage the borrower is out of debt.

All loans under the farm loan act are made under the amortization or installment plan. Since the borrower after he gets it, and because a long time is best suited to farmers, borrowers under this act are permitted to execute mortgages to run from five to forty years at their option.

Permission is given to pay all of the loan or any part of it on any interest due after the mortgage has been made.

Borrowers are not permitted to pay off within the first five years, because the money which they have borrowed is being repaid by the bank through the sale of its bonds, and bonds cannot be sold at a shorter period than five years.

To give the prospective farmer an exact idea of the size of annual payments required to wipe out a mortgage in a given period, tables have been prepared. The following table shows the amount of annual payments required to extinguish in the period indicated a $1,000 loan bearing interest at 5, 5½ and 6 per cent:

Term (years)	5 Per Cent	5½ Per Cent	6 Per Cent
10	$129.50	$132.67	$135.87
15	96.34	99.63	102.74
20	80.24	83.89	87.18
25	70.56	74.55	78.23
30	66.56	68.61	72.65
35	61.01	64.07	68.07
40	55.23	59.32	63.45

The use of the borrowed money is limited to the following purposes: To purchase land or additional land; to pay off existing indebtedness; to purchase live stock, or to make any productive improvements such as clearing, fences, drainage, buildings and machinery.

The object of amortization is to enable a farmer to turn a mortgage into an investment. When he can borrow at a less rate than it yields him he is able to pay off his indebtedness out of the profits of his investment. A long time loan enables him to use his money judiciously so that it will contribute to his increased producing power.

Heretofore farmers have not been able to borrow for long periods. This discouraged investment in live stock and for many other purposes because returns are slow. Short term loans made a speculator out of a farmer.

So the farm loan act in addition to providing a way for the farmer to borrow to the limit of safety, induces him to put his borrowed money to productive uses and provides for him a means of getting out of debt from the profits of the investment.

Thus the farm loan act places within reach of the farmer the means to help himself and stimulate his business initiative. The long time loan with its small annual payments puts a quietus on the terror of mortgage foreclosure.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

We are still informed that the next congress is to be evenly divided between the democrats and republicans with the independent voters holding the balance of power. The democratic party, which elated over the idea, but they have not counted that Tammany has had a wonderful spell of real, genuine, "dry weather," and that the "lean years" of the present administration are not pleasing to the members that owe allegiance to that dominant New York organization. This may make a decided difference and it would not be strange if the democratic administration did not find it particularly hard to pass some of the proposed legislation by a strict party vote when the time comes. There is a decided tendency on the part of both republican and democratic members to vote as their best judgment dictates and this will count largely in the organization of the house and the management of the steering committees. The thought has been expressed that the southern states, with their minority vote and their payment of less taxes than other northern communities have practically as many votes in congress and cast less votes than do their opponents in the north. This may lead to a plan to reduce their power by legislation that will lead to a reduction of the number of congressmen south of the Mason and Dixie line that would swing the balance of power in a short time into the north and not on a party basis, either. However this is just a possibility and Lenor of Wisconsin is the man to whom the northern legislators look to for some radical action. By the way, Wisconsin is to have a solid republican congressional representation at the next congress and it will be interesting to note how they work together.

A FALSE ALARM.

A false alarm of fire which rang in from the Janesville high school Tuesday night, brought the hearts of hundreds of Janesville parents in their mouths and caused an unusual rush of business men toward the structure only to be stopped and reassured that it was a false alarm. Be it as it was, it was a lucky escape. However, the manner in which the students of the school, some five hundred in number, responded to the sound of the fire alarm, marched out of the building, demonstrated the value of the fire drill for even if there was no actual fire the fire apparatus was present and added the needed scenic effect of a real fire. The school board is to be congratulated upon its decision to cause a survey of the city schools to be made to see what is needed and what is not to get out of all the fire drills. This is impressed all the more strongly by the fact that at a meeting of the Commercial club directors on Monday the question of the fire protection was discussed and a prominent contractor, who is thoroughly acquainted with the high school structure, announced that the school fire alarm was a false alarm, it was a veritable fire trap.

This fact has long been recognized by Chief Klein of the fire department and was illustrated Tuesday when he called all the department's equipment into service the moment the call came in from this danger point. That a survey will show what ought to be done with this condition is most certain. That this survey must be made by experts, men from outside the state with no personal interests is realized by all who hope the survey will be ordered and the results obtained will show what is needed.

This is no time for half way measures. The school board realizes it and hesitates to order the expenditure of money for the purpose designed. The anxiety of the fire chief to have all possible present in case was was a fire that threatened the lives of the first panic of a fire, all demonstrate that the citizens are behind the school board in anything they see fit to do, to order a survey that will bring about a betterment of the conditions. The Gazette does not call attention to the fire risks, the panic risk, with any intent to criticize the city officials or commissions having charge of public buildings, but simply to safeguard the public. The fact that the library had been inspected by a state inspector, and that changes were recommended shows that the suggestion of the Gazette was in public interest and not criticism of the library board, which had received no orders relative to the building and considered it safe for public meetings.

It is known that the chief of the fire department could make a report on the public safety that would surprise many citizens, but refrains from doing so for personal reasons, fearing criticism should he do so. How much more would he be criticised if any public calamity befell the community. He takes what precautions he can by having his department ready for any emergency, but the ounce of prevention would come if he would make his public suggestions and see that they were remedied.

No one thought that the Cleveland school could ever burn and the pupils lose their lives. The Troquois theatre was fireproof, but not panic-proof, and count the loss of life there. Janesville paid its share. The "General Slocum" was fireproof, but thousands were drowned and the captain served a term for criminal negligence. So it goes.

Take time by the forelock and do not let us be caught by a real alarm instead of a false alarm. Let us be prepared. Let us safeguard the interests of the public, whether at school, at a dance, at a lecture, at a theatre. The city officials are as much interested as any one, as they would be blamed should a catastrophe occur. It is no time to let the action be now, before it is too late.

ADMINISTRATION MEASURES.

The legislature has just about started. The senate does not yet perhaps realize that it must speed up to keep pace with the assembly, but it will shortly. The administration measures for the redemption of the state have not yet made their appearance. The advocates of the repeal—or a radical change in the present primary law—have not been assured as easy sailing as they expected owing to the governor's expressed attitude that in view of the fact the people voted for the primary law they should also have an opportunity to vote for its repeal. It will mean a change of front. The law there will be modification of the law there is no doubt. It is simply an added expense upon the taxpayers and it has not worked out at all to the satisfaction of the men who promulgated it in the first place, the continuation of their action in power.

One must read the governor's message over carefully to find just what the administration measures are. Of course in general they are a trend toward economy in the administration of state affairs and also toward a simplifying of the management of the state affairs. Perhaps the most radical move proposed is that of making the term of the governor four years and abolishing the election of a state treasurer, an attorney general and a secretary of state and making them appointive officers. This follows the lead of the national government and gives the governor a cabinet, so to speak, with whom he can confer upon matters of state importance and feel assured his thoughts will be carried out.

Of course this idea is idealistic if the wrong sort of a chief state administrator does not get into power. If he does and the cabinet idea carries, the taxpayers would have a peck of trouble. They would be worse off than they have been under the experimental regimes that have been tried. Of course one should not bother trouble and expect that the voters would be foolish enough to vote in the governor's chair a "tax-eater" again, but still—well, funny things have happened in Wisconsin in the past, so why not borrow trouble before the choice coin is stolen because you left the barn door open?

The entire West paid tribute to Col. Cody, "Buffalo Bill" if you please to remember him as such, and well might they do. Few men have performed the public service he has remained in the public service as long as he has, been in the public eye for as many years this ideal westerner of the days of Buffalo and Indians as this came Cody. "Buffalo Bill" is dead, but his memory remains and every man who came in contact with him knows him for what he was worth.

There is no use to quibble and to explain. You all know that the Hen is the supreme dictator of the American breakfast table this season of the year, so why hesitate and fail to visit that show in which your "Supreme Highness" reigns supreme at the auditorium and pay due homage and then wonder why the price of eggs, like coal, has gone so high.

Residents of Janesville should qualify for any sort of gymnastic qualifications that are offered after the weeks of slippery sidewalks and no sand on them. The number of backward flips and front somersaults would do credit to the days of Burr Robbins' circus.

They may say that the war is to be fought out on the western battle front but thus far the few inches the allies have advanced on the map show that it is going to be slow work to drive the Kaiser's soldiers "Über der Rhine" before next Christmas day.

The porch sleepers are not claiming any medals for sticking to their positions of trust these nights. They smile and say nothing when they get at the man who proclaims his house is as cold as a dog kennel, no matter how much coal he puts in his furnace.

Really, if it were not for the neutral nations, grand opera would have to go in the discard. As it is, a lot of men and women are demonstrating that they can sing if they have to.

The Daily Novelette

Sheerluck Bones, the great detective, sat in his office pasting imported cigar bands on a bunch of three for five cigars to put in his give away packet when Silas Dinglemore entered.

"I want you to look into the finances of my daughter's fiancé. He claims to have plenty of money. He claims to own 18th Avenue, a big pickie house, but he talks more like a piker than a pickler!"

"Oh—ah—ah—ah!" said the great detective. "A baffling one, indeed. Let me ponder for a second! Oh, ah, indeed. Just send him to me. I will unravel the mystery!"

II.

Charlie Scraphin Dosh entered the S. D. office.

"Let me see your watch!" commanded the great detective.

And Charlie handed over his double barrelled, self-winding, no-jewelry Ostermeyer watch.

And Sheerluck Bones opened the back of it to examine it with his 24 calibre magnifying glass.

"Ahem. That will be all," he said, and our hero vanished.

III.

"Yes. Give me—Spoondexy 0032. That you Mr. Dinglemore? Yes, this is Detective Bones. I find that your Mr. Dosh has had money right along, he hasn't it now, because he has his watch back, and the two don't go together. I examined the watch, and find that there are twenty different pawnbrokers' numbers upon the watch lid near the solar spring and thirteen more near the 40 h. p. 3 h. skidderwheel. Therefore, he hasn't the watch and his watch at the same time."

After Silas Dinglemore came to be found his wife and daughter weeping softly.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

THE POET AND HIS FACE
The Poet Speaks:
Though I'll allow, my face, as how
"Wouldn't bother me to be without you."
Still you'll confess your usefulness is almost all there is about you;
For seldom do the many who
Regard you ever grow enraptured,
And tell me when you've gladdened
Or lovely maidens ever captured?

Could I replace you, homely face,
Be sure I'd very quickly do it!
Those trifling, ears move me to tears!
That mouth! The nose adjacent to it!
I've searched you face, for some vague trace
Of beauty, but I've searched you vainly
Oh, what despairs that I must wear
A face so graceless and ungainly!

The face replies:
Well, be it so! I only know
That if I'm plain and so, unsightly
Perhaps you might more often light
Me up with smiles to beam more brilliantly!
Just deck me o'er with three or four
Engaging looks, good-humored
smiles,
Perhaps in time you'll see that I'm More often sinned against than sinning!

Testimony.
Today's speaker.
It's flattering to be talked about,
but don't do it all yourself.

The young Denver wife, whose husband lived with her and then died, should be glad to be rid of such a nut.

Ballade of the Exasperated Autoist.
All dead and prone upon his back,
The lean garage man lay
And people came to cry, "Alack!"
In something of dismay.

"What fiendish hand hath lain him
Alas, behind his ear
Has he been dealt a frightful blow!"
And many dropped a tear.

"That he hath met a death so dire
Is very sad to see;
This very morn he patched a tire
As happy as could be."

And then an autoist, with care
All written on his brow,
Stepped forth to say, "This same
repair
Man I have killed, I vow."

A storm of wrath arose—"But, hold!"
Cried he, "But pause and hear.
He soaked me thirty dollars cold
To monkey with a gear!"

"A new one then I had to get,
He soaked me forty more..."
It is declared they're cheering yet
That autoist of yore.

Experience is one of the things that is free. But you often pay dear for it.

Neither Pest.
Grover Gray, some fine day,
He is going to pass away.

I will kill, so I will,
Grover Gray, the horrid pill.
Grover G. said to me,
"You are getting thin, I see."

And your hair, I declare,
is getting rather spare."

Grover Gray, some fine day,
He is going to pass away!

PREHISTORIC CORN ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Kernels for Planting By Farmer Boys Distributed at the Poultry Show Today.

Secretary Smith of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Show has been busy today handing out the little packets of corn grown from kernels found in a prehistoric mound in the southwest, which the Janesville Gazette is presenting to the farmer boys who visit the show.

This corn is the second crop, and while it greatly resembles the various varieties of dent corn found on the average farm, still it grows to an unusual height and has but four to five ears all abnormally long. This seed was grown by Charles Connell during the past summer from seed furnished him for the purpose by the Gazette; and much care was taken to keep it from mixing with any other corn in the vicinity.

The little packets contain six kernels, all that could be spared, and they should be planted like other corn, but away from fields of corn so that the pollen will not become mixed. It may develop into red ears, into blue black, yellow or white. It will be interesting to note what color the harvest will bring forth. The packets may be obtained by applying to Secretary Smith, who will furnish the applicants as long as the supply lasts.

McLEAN HAS ANOTHER CURE! ENDS SCOURS OF ANIMALS

George McLean, Janesville's medicine man, again today comes forward with another of his home remedies. This time the cure is of interest to stock breeders. "A fine remedy and a sure cure for white scours in calves and colts, and scours in pigs, horses and other animals, never known to fail, even in the worst cases." Here's the cure: One cupful silver glass starch in quart cold milk, one-half teaspoonful cayenne pepper, mix well. Place compound in long neck bottle to give to animal. If after three hours no action results, repeat the dose.

FAVORS FOUR YEAR TERM FOR ELECTIVE OFFICERS OF STATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 17.—A change in the state constitution so that all of the present elective officers will hold for four years instead of two is proposed in a constitutional amendment offered by Assemblyman John P. Donnelly of Milwaukee. Mr. Donnelly does not agree with the suggestion of Governor Philipp in his message last week that the present constitution be amended to provide for the election of officers for terms of four years and should have the right to appoint the other officers who are to serve as members of his cabinet. The Milwaukee assemblyman takes the position that the present state officers should be elected, but that the term of office should be increased from two to four years.

Regulation of Storage Vents.
Assemblyman Donnelly also offered a bill for the regulation of cold storage plants in Wisconsin. His bill provides that the state dairy and food commissioner shall have authority to issue a license for cold storage plants and shall issue a license for their operation. The dairy and food commissioner, according to the terms of the bill, shall have authority to inspect the sanitary condition of the plants with complete authority to require changes in the methods of sanitation. Every article of food placed in cold storage shall be marked with showing the date on which it was placed in storage. No firm or corporation shall permit to remain in any cold storage building any food which has been held in cold storage, either within or without the state, for a longer period than twelve months, except with the consent of the dairy and food commissioner. In granting an extension of time that any article may be held in storage, the dairy and food commissioner must state how long such article may be held in cold storage for a period of forty days must be plainly marked when sold "cold storage goods."

May Codify Game Laws.
The condition of all the game laws of the state, as recommended by the state conservation commission, will be presented in the assembly either the latter part of this week or early next. Many unique features will be incorporated in this bill. Among some of these are the following:

A provision to allow owners of property comprising 160 acres to establish game preserves upon their land, which will be protected by the state.

Increase of penalties, especially those for illegal hunting of deer.

Closed season for bear.

Abolishing bounties for lynx and wild cats.

Authorizing the conservation commission to open and close seasons.

Advancing the deer season so that it will be from November 21 to December 10.

Penalties of trappers who take fur bearing animals, the fee to be $1.

The non-resident deer hunting license to be made $50 and for limited hunting $25. Non-resident fishing license to be increased to $1 for residents will be required to pay $1 for a license to catch trout.

A closed season for partridges and prairie chickens until 1918.

The hunting of rabbits with ferrets is prohibited, and no one can own a ferret who does not have a permit.

No device or scheme to drive rabbits out of their holes is permitted.

Deer decoys must be registered and no hunter can use more than five.

No person can serve game of any kind as free lunch.

TWENTY-ONE DOLLARS TO CHILDREN'S FUND

Money Collected in Janesville for Starving Children in Europe is Forwarded by Gazette.

The sum of twenty-one dollars left at the Gazette office by various persons as contributions to the children of America's fund for the aid of dying and starving children in European countries stricken by the war, was forwarded by the Gazette company to the property headquarters of the society. Although the sum of $21 seems a small amount for amelioration of conditions which demand the expenditure of large funds, it will do a much larger amount of good than might be supposed. It will provide food for some two or three hundred children for one day, which is no mean thing. The campaign has been carried on over the entire United States and the total collected will accomplish much to alleviate suffering in the beleaguered lands.

The Adder's Poison.
One of the most wonderful things in nature is the arrangement of the teeth in the mouth of the common adder or viper. The creature does not use its poison fangs when it bites the animals on which it feeds, and so by a very curious arrangement these fangs are laid back flat in the roof of the mouth out of the way of the ordinary teeth which are used for feeding. By this means the adder can use whichever set of teeth it pleases. One set will poison its enemy, and the other is more suitable for eating its food.

How to Heal Skin-Diseases

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable drugstore get a bar of resitol ointment and a cake of resitol soap. These are not at all expensive. With the resitol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resitol ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again.

Almost any soap will clean the skin and hair. But those who want a soap which not only cleanses but actually helps the complexion and hair are wise to choose resitol soap.

THE MAN WHO SAID "TIME IS MONEY" KNEW WHAT HE WAS TALKING ABOUT.

Nan of Music Mountain

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN
Author of "WHISPERING SMITH"

(Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons)

The sleeper woke to feel a hand laid lightly on his shoulder. The instinct of self-preservation acted like a flash. His eyes opened and his hands struck out like cat's paws to the right and left: no knife and no revolver met them. Instead, in the semidarkness a strange face bent over him. His fists shot out together, only to be caught in a vise that broke his arms in two at the elbows, and forced them back against his throat. A knee, like an anvil, pushed inexorably into his stomach and heart and lungs. Another lay across his right arm, and his struggling left arm he could not, though his eyes burst with the strain from their sockets, release from where, angelic claws gripped at his throat and shut off his breath. He lay still.

"Are you awake, Shike?" Sassoon heard from the gloom above him. But he could not place the voice. "You seem to move around a good deal in your sleep. If you're awake, keep still. I've come from Sleepy Cat to get you. Don't mind looking for your gun and knife. Two men are with me. You can have your choice. We've got a horse for you. You can ride away from us here inside the gap, and take what hits you in the back, or you can go to Sleepy Cat with us and stand your trial. I'll read your warrant when the sun gets a little higher. Get up and choose quick."

Sassoon could not see who had subdued him, nor did he take long to decide what to do. With less trouble than he expected, the captor got his man sullenly on horseback, and gave him severely plain directions as to what to do. Sassoon, neither bound nor gagged, was told to ride his horse down the gap closely ahead of De Spain and neither to speak nor turn his head no matter what happened right or left.

In the growing light the two men trotted smartly a mile down the trail without encountering a sign of life. When they approached the Morgan ranch-house De Spain rode close to his prisoner, told him what would happen if he made a noise, and even held him back in his pace as they trotted together past the gap stronghold. When they left the house behind and the turn in the road put them out of range of its windows, he closed up the distance between himself and Sassoon, riding close in to his side, and looked back for a fraction of a second. When he looked ahead again he saw confronting him, not a hundred yards away, a motionless horseman.

CHAPTER V.

Heels for It.

With a sudden, low command to Sassoon to check his horse, De Spain pressed the muzzle of his gun to his prisoner's side. "You've got one chance yet, Shike, to ride out of here alive," he said composedly. "You know I am a rustler—cousin of John Rebstock's. My name is 'French'; I belong in Williams cache. I rode in last night from Thief river, and you are riding out with me to start me on to the Sleepy Cat trail. If you can remember that much—"

De Spain stopped half-way through his sentence. The figure revealed in the half-light puzzled him at first. Then it confused and startled him. He saw it was not a man at all, but a woman—and a woman than whom he would rather have seen six men. It was Nan Morgan.

With her head never more decisively set under her mannish hat, her waist never more attractively outlined in slenderness, she silently faced De Spain in the morning gray. His face reflected his chagrined perplexity. He could already see Nan's eyes. They were bent keenly first on him, then on his companion, and again on him. De Spain kept his face down as much as he dared, and his hat had been pulled well over it from the beginning.

They were now almost abreast. The very instinctive knowledge that her eyes were bent on his made him steal a glance at her in spite of himself. The next instant he was shamefacedly touching his hat. Though nothing was lost on her, Nan professed not to see the greeting. When she spoke her tone was dry with suspicion.

"Wait a moment, Sassoon. Where are you going?" she demanded. Sassoon hitched with one hand at his trousers band. He inclined his head sulkily toward his companion. "Starting a man on the trail for Sleepy Cat."

"Stop," she exclaimed sharply, for De Spain, pushing his own horse ahead, had managed without being observed, to kick Sassoon's horse in the flank, and the two were passing. Sassoon at the resolute summons stopped. De Spain could do no less; both men, halting, faced their suspicious inquisitor. She scrutinized De Spain keenly. "What is this man doing in the gap?"

"He came up from Thief river last night," answered Sassoon monotonously.

"What is he doing here with you?" persisted Nan.

"He's a cousin of John Rebstock's from Williams Cache," continued Sassoon. "The yarn would have sounded decently well in the circumstances for which it was intended, but in the searching gaze of the eyes now confronting and clearly recognizing him,

He Saw It Was Not a Man at All, but a Woman.

It sounded so grotesque that De Spain would fully as lief have been sitting between his horse's legs as astride his back.

"That's not true, Sassoon," said his relentless questioner. Her tone and the expression of her face boded no friendliness for either of the two she had intercepted.

De Spain had recovered his wits. "You're right," he interposed without an instant's hesitation. "It isn't true. But that's not his fault; he is under arrest, and is telling you what I told him to tell you. I came to here this morning to take Sassoon to Sleepy Cat. He is a prisoner, wanted for cutting up one of our stage-guards."

Nan, coldly skeptical, eyed De Spain. "And do you try to tell me"—she pointed to Sassoon's unbound hands—"that he is riding out of here, a free man, to go to jail?"

"I do tell you exactly that. He is my prisoner."

"I don't believe either of you," declared Nan scornfully. "You are planning something underhand together."

De Spain laughed coolly. "We've planned that much together, but not, I assure you, with his consent."

"I don't believe your stories at all," she declared firmly.

De Spain flushed. The irritation and the serious danger bore in on him. "If you don't believe me it's not my fault," he retorted. "I've told you the truth. Ride on, Sassoon."

He spoke angrily, but this in no wise daunted Nan. She wheeled her horse directly in front of them. "Don't you stir, Sassoon," she commanded. "Until I call Uncle Duke."

De Spain raised his right hand from his thigh to the pommel of his saddle. The slight gesture was eloquent of his surrender of the issue of force. "I can't go into a shooting-match with you about this cur. If you call your uncle there will be bloodshed—unless you drop me off my horse right here and now before he appears. All I ask you is this: Is this kind of a cut-throat worth that? If you shoot me, my whole posse from Sleepy Cat is right below us in the aspens. Some of your own people will be killed in a general fight. If you want to shoot me, shoot—you can have the match all to yourself. If you don't, let us go by. And if I live, told you one word that isn't true, call me back to this spot any time you like, and I'll come at your call, and answer for it."

His words and his manner confounded her for a moment. She could not at once make an answer, for she could not decide what to say. Then, of a sudden, she was robbed of her chance to answer. From down the trail came a yell like a shot. The clatter of hoofs rang out, and men on horses dashed from the entrance of the gap toward them.

De Spain could not make out distinctly, but he knew Lefever's yell, and pointed. "There they are," he exclaimed hurriedly. "There is the whole posse. They are coming!" A shot, followed closely by a second, rang out from below. "Go," he cried to Nan. "There'll be shooting here that I can't stop!" He slipped Sassoon's pony viciously with his hand, spurred past her himself, and was away. White with consternation and anger, she steadied herself and looked after the fleeing pair. Then whirling in her saddle, she ran her pony back to the ranch-house to give the alarm.

Yelling like half a dozen men, Lefever and Scott, as De Spain and his prisoner dashed toward them, separated, let the pair pass, and spurred in behind to cover the flight and confront any pursuers. None at the moment threatened, but no words were exchanged until the whole party, riding fast, were well past El Capitan and out of the gap. For some unexpressed reason—so strong is the influence of tradition and reputation—no one of the three coveted a close encounter with the Morgans within its walls.

THE BOOB FAMILY

Why Suffer With Backache, Kidneys or Rheumatism Now!

Dear Readers:—I am making an appeal to those of you who have kidney and bladder trouble and rheumatism, to give up harsh salts, or alcohol, or kidney medicines that you know nothing about, and instead take Anuric and be convinced of its superiority, as I was.

You've all undoubtedly heard of the famous Dr. Pierce and his well-known medicines. Well, this prescription is one that has been successfully used by the physicians and specialists at Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel of Buffalo, N. Y., for kidney complaints and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine and urinary troubles. I know of one or two druggists in town who have managed to procure a supply of Anuric for anxious customers in and around this locality.

F. W. D.

MOTHERS OF WISCONSIN.

Sheboygan, Wis.—"Several years ago I developed a very bad case of woman's weakness. I took different kinds of medicine but received no benefit whatever from their use. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and commenced to improve at once, and in six months I was well and hearty. That was twelve years ago and I have never been bothered since. This ailment was brought on through some heavy lifting I did before I was real strong after twins came. I know of no better medicine than 'Favorite Prescription' for women."—Mrs. Frank Wendland, 1605 Clara Avenue.

Dinner Stories

A gentleman dining at a hotel where the servants were "few and far between" dispatched a lad among them for an order of beef.

After a long time the lad returned and was asked by the faint and hungry gentleman:

"Are you the lad who took away my plate for some beef?"

"Bless me!" resumed the hungry wit; "how you have grown!"

"Who's down there?" called Dr. Stutch, thrusting his head, features and neck out of his bedroom window.

"It's me, doctor," said a dark figure on the doorsteps.

"Oh, you," said the doctor. "The baby has been crying these four hours, and everybody in the house is up, but nobody can quiet him," said the d. f. on the steps.

"The poor child!" said Dr. Stutch. "I'll throw down some sleeping powders."

And he did, and Mr. Wee Gates—for it was he—buried home with them, and found the baby still crying and the family awake and working.

"Here, everybody," said Gates. And he gave a sleeping powder to Mrs. Gates, one to Aunt Gates, one to Miss Garden Gates and took one himself. And they all fell asleep immediately, and didn't hear another sound from the baby till next morning.

After a long drought there fell a torrent of rain, and a country gentle-

GOOD SERVICE IN SAND-CLAY ROADS

Are Economical and Wear Well, Experience Shows.

FOLLOW CONTOUR OF LAND

Two Progressive Townships of Catawba County, in North Carolina, Have Built Sand-Clay Roads and Have Found Them Very Satisfactory—Have Withstood Some Bad Conditions.

Some years ago the question of a good road was voted on by the two most progressive townships of Catawba county, N. C., writes P. C. Henry in the Farm Progress. Although many of the older people could not see the advantage of voting bonds to the value of $50,000 in each township for building good roads, yet the measure carried by a safe majority.

The day on which we successfully passed that milestone is not so far behind us—six years—yet we can observe many improvements throughout the whole county on account of the good roads already completed. Many people in the other townships of the county were skeptical about the ability of good roads to last year after year. But now that they have used these improved roads year after year they who were once "kickers" have actually become good roads advocates. Just the other day I heard one of them say:

"If they'll build a good road out my way I'll not only give them the right of way through my place, but all the top soil they need and some cash besides."

It is wonderful what effect such a stretch of good road has on people who once vehemently opposed its construction. To such people you can argue good roads till you are blue in the face and it won't have near the effect that several drives over such an improved road have after driving through ten miles of mud on the old roads.

I do not advocate the building of costly pikes or macadam roads, as our experience shows they do not give as good service as the less costly sand-clay highway. Having been reared in a section where the piked roads were used, let me compare them with the modern sand-clay roads such as we built in Catawba county. The pike road costs a great sum to build and to maintain in proper order. I well remember the many bad stretches of pike I have traveled and yet paid full toll to travel over such bad roads. The modern sand-clay roads are not built on a bee line in hilly country, but follow the contour of the land, with wide, easy curves. The roads are first surveyed, and if a 4 per cent grade cannot easily be obtained the road is relocated. When the grading is finished a fifteen inch layer of sand or top soil is placed in the center, sloping gradually to the side ditches. After several months this sand or top soil becomes very hard and during the worst winter weather remains firm and hard, making a most excellent highway at a moderate cost. Of course, the road is dug at intervals to keep the crown nicely rounded; thus all water is led into the side ditches as soon as it falls. All drainage from one side of the road to the other is beneath the road through culverts, never any old fashioned ditches across the road.

And, what is more, there are no toll gates on our roads at which to bother and lose time. Nor is our rate of tax increased. We set aside a sum each year for twenty years to cover the cost of building them. This money was formerly used in a haphazard manner, and mostly wasted; now it is used for permanent improvements.

We have passed through real flood conditions. Fifteen inches of water fell in less than three days, with the result that every bridge was washed away along the Catawba river and likewise all our county bridges. How did the modern sand-clay roads stand such a deluge of water? I was surprised to see how well our new roads stood up under such conditions. Only at a few places where the water rose over the roads did it wash off the sand, which will need some repairs, and this would not have happened had there been sufficient drainage beneath the road.

Local road money wasted when for generation after generation a few patches are made after every rain on a hill with a 20 or 30 per cent grade. Why not relocate that road at once and get a 4 or 5 per cent grade around the hill? Then the upkeep of that road will be very small each year.

Longest Concrete Roadway.
Under supervision of the California state highway commission there has just been completed the longest concrete roadway in the world, a remarkable example of the use of that material. It is a little more than three miles long, a freestone construction, and at almost $295,000. The trestle is twenty feet high and was built in units with a roadway twenty-one feet wide. It is supported on reinforced concrete piles, each weighing from three to five tons, and the floor is made of "precast" slabs. All the parts were put together so carefully that the completed structure is practically a monolith.

Many Millions For Good Roads.
Under the federal aid road act within the next five years $160,000,000 will be spent by federal and state governments in improving rural roads.

FORMER JAP AMBASSADOR TO U. S. TO STRENGTHEN RUSSIAN-JAP ALLIANCE

Tokio, Jan. 17.—Chosen with the idea that he will further the cause of friendship between Japan and Russia and strengthen the alliance recently concluded between the two empires, Viscount Yasuya Uchida, ambassador to the United States in 1903-11, has been appointed as the new Japanese envoy to Russia.

Viscount Uchida fills the post made vacant when Viscount Motono was called to accept the position of foreign minister in the new Teruchi ministry. Besides his term in Washington, he has acted as ambassador to Vienna, minister to China and was foreign minister in 1911. He is considered one of the most able diplomats in Japan.

Politicians in Tokio take the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese pact last spring as the beginning of a long term of friendly political and commercial relations between the two countries. But it is generally believed that only a beginning has been made. There is a generally accepted belief that Russia requested Japan to wait until the close of the war for signature of additional clauses of the new convention.

Viscount Motono is given the credit for laying the foundation of the alliance with Russia. His service as foreign minister is expected to be marked with pro-Russian tendencies. Upon Viscount Uchida, however, is placed the responsibility of promoting relations in Petrograd, so that after the war, as well as the present, the two nations will be best adapted to the interests of the far east.

Mrs. Roy Brooks and little son from East Delavan, came Monday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hyndman.

Frank Gile was an out-of-town visitor Tuesday.

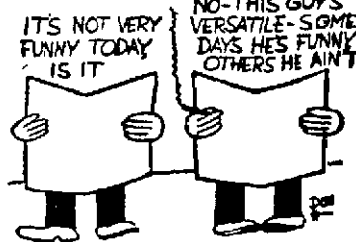

Miss Edith Scheiby went to Delavan Tuesday to visit her aunt.

Dr. Harry Piper went to Madison Tuesday to attend a veterinary convention.

Miss Martha Shager went to Beloit Tuesday for a few days' visit with friends.

Everyday Wisdom

BED TIME

Did you ever, just after you have crawled into your bed at night, awake and think of all the people, one by one, that you ever knew in the world, and wonder what they were doing just that minute? Did you ever imagine all of them, just at that time, on the edge of going to sleep for the night, just like you—everybody in their nightgowns and pajamas, and just ready to give up and go to sleep?

There are your father and mother—all tired out—no doubt wondering about you. There are your sisters, trail, maybe healthy, with their hair down, their eyes closed, ready to be kissed tight by sleep.

One by one you can think of all the people you knew in your home town, all asleep at just that minute, maybe all asleep. There is Henry Doe, who was always swearing and ranting in the daytime, every waking minute—he is peaceful and silent. There is Jim Doe, the town drunkard—he is quiet and sober with sleep. There are all the fretful people you ever knew—people with all various kinds of temper and frets—they are now quiet and restful, in sleep. Then quickly, you try to think of all the good people, all the sweet people you ever knew—and one by one you can see them in sleep. Somehow you seem sort of sorry for all of them—good and bad. In sleep—everybody is about the same—there is something impersonalizing about sleep—sleep makes the whole world kin. And perhaps if the whole world, when it is asleep, could be waked all at once, and everybody were to say: "Wait a minute. Stay just like you are. Don't be like you were yesterday. Be the nice kind of person you are when you are asleep"—maybe we would all like each other all right.

MYSTERIOUS NEGRO SLAYER TO DIE, REMAINS SILENT.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Harriburg, Pa., Jan. 17.—The mysterious negro, John Nelson, who appeared from nowhere on Halliwell's night, 1915, rushed up to J. M. Slicker, a farmer, and stabbed him to death for no apparent reason, will get one more chance to talk to the Pardon Board about his death sentence. Nelson is a well-educated, intelligent, cultured negro, about 50. Some of his features are not African. He is a true "man of mystery." He appeared suddenly out of the darkness, out of a crowd, attacked three men standing in front of a door and Slicker died from knife wounds.

Until two days before he had never been seen in the community. He declines to talk about himself or where he has been. He has manifested no interest in efforts to save him from the electric chair.

London, Jan. 17.—Signs printed in German and hung in Charling Cross station have been removed by the railroad authorities. These signs merely cautioned "beware of pickpockets," but wounded British Tommies arriving in hospital trains said they were grateful on their shattered nerves.

AMATEUR BASEBALL HEADS MEET FRIDAY

(Toledo, O., Jan. 17.—The question of how long a professional ball player should have been retired from the professional ranks before he is eligible to join any of the clubs under the supervision of the National Baseball Federation will be one of the most important matters to come up at the second annual meeting of the federation Friday at the Hotel Secor here. The National Baseball Federation does not insist upon the rulings, "once a professional, always a professional" or "professional" for ambitious young players to secure tryouts in the professional ranks and for former professionals to keep on playing ball even after they have retired from the big leagues.

The federation takes the view that the younger players are better off for having experienced veterans to coach them. But the federation does not wish to have a loophole for professional players to get into the amateur and semi-professional ranks by the purchase of a "dummy" franchise, fostering and supporting representative clubs.

At present the National Baseball Federation has two classifications of players. Class A—those players who do not earn a livelihood by their services as a player during the current season (in other words amateurs); class AA—those players who do not earn a livelihood by their services as players (in other words, players who receive small sums of money for playing ball with his or another club, but earn his living in another manner entirely). These players being commonly known as semi-professionals.

Last year the National Baseball Federation conducted championship inter-city series for both Class A and Class AA teams. Fourteen cities from the west, middle west, South and Middle Atlantic states put forth their respective clubs in the Class A competition. Johnston, Pa., Cleveland, O., and Louisville, Ky., competed in the Class A series.

The federation team which won the honors in the Class A division, with the Knights of Columbus team of Louisville, Ky., as runner-up.

After an exciting and interesting elimination series the Norwood, Cincinnati, O., won the class AA title, with the Rail Lights of Toledo, O., as runner-up. The other cities participating included the Indians, Pa., Cincinnati, O., Detroit, Mich., Cleveland, Ohio, O., Akron, O., Dayton, O., New Orleans, La., Birmingham, Ala., Pittsburgh, Pa., Columbus, O., and Johnston, Pa.

The purpose of the national baseball federation, as outlined in its constitution, is to promote, promulgate and perpetuate non-commercialized baseball throughout the United States, to surround it with proper safeguards, to aid and assist in the fostering, developing and regulating of local associations in accordance with the spirit, play, to aid and assist in the furthering of inter-city contests and to foster an annual convention for friendly open discussion for the purposes outlined.

Milwaukee Boy Hands Champion Severe Trimming in Ten Round Go at Milwaukee Tuesday Night.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milwaukee, Jan. 17.—Freddie Welsh can thank the Wisconsin boxing law which forbids referees' decisions for his title as lightweight champion of the world today, for he suffered an unmerciful lacing last night at the hands of Ritchie Mitchell, Milwaukee's pride, in a ten round go at the Auditorium. Fully 8,000 fans were on hand for the exhibition.

Welsh put up a sorry exhibition. In nine out of ten rounds he was thoroughly beaten, hopelessly outclassed. Mitchell smashed the champion again and again with his left hook to the face, and was continually leading. At the end of the fifth round Referee Harry Stout went to Welsh's corner and ordered him to fight. Welsh seemed either unwilling to take the offensive or was entirely baffled by Ritchie's style of boxing. The tenth round was even, the bout ending with a draw and taking slugging match in which Welsh seemed to hold his own for the first time during the bout.

The semi-final was a pretty six-round affair between two fast boxers Ray Maywurm, 120½ pounds, and Eddie Boehme, 125½. Maywurm went into the sixth round with a wide margin on points, but his blows did no damage to Boehme, and they went to it like two game cocks in the last round. It was Maywurm's fight on points.

THE WHATCHAMA COLUMN

Nightcaps.

The nightcap is an old fashioned affair, either crocheted or bottled. Some men wear them on their heads, others on their stomachs. You tell one by its tassel and the other by its kick. The crocheted nightcap isn't so much worn as crocheted. The bottled nightcap is a treacherous and movable feast. A nightcap at night, it becomes an eyepiece in the morning; an appetizer at noon, and a cocktail at dinner. The Jekyll & Hyde of nightcaps, as it were.

The man who sleeps with one nightcap on his head and another on his tummy usually takes them both off in the morning and puts on a grouch. And he who wears a nightcap on his head may wear a crown on his coat, but he who wears a nightcap on his stomach wears a blossom on his nose. Nightcaps ought to be abolished. All of them. About the only thing they ever accomplish anyhow is baldness of the pate or cirrhosis of the liver.

MORRIS MILLER

The Springfield club of the Central league announces that it expects to close a deal with the Detroit club by which it will get Pitcher Alton in addition to Outfielder Walker. Both players were secured by Detroit from the Virginia league.

Business Manager Walter Hapgood of the Boston Braves announces that if Manager George Stallings is willing he may book a series of games in Havana, as it is but a short jump from the camp at Miami and the Cubans are eager to see the Braves in action.

Billy Doyle, now connected with the Milwaukee club and somewhat famous for his Portsmouth baseball school, has taken the agency for an automatic baseball game and is making a neat little pile installing and selling the contrivances in Ohio and Kentucky towns.

Though well loaded with talent the New York Americans will not reduce their scouting operations next year. Joe Kelly will again head the gumshoe brigade, with Bobby Gilks and George Ledy as his assistants and Duke Farrell making occasional excursions to the minors.

Manager Clark Griffith says he will issue no contracts to a player for a period longer than one year. He is said to favor the bonus system in fixing salaries, the players to receive additional sums for good work done. He is quoted as saying there will be few if any holdouts on his club.

The itinerary of the Chicago Cubs on the return trip from California is by no means decided. One proposition under consideration is to have the team stop over at Tucson, Ariz., for several weeks on the back. It depends a good deal on the number of exhibitions that can be booked for the return journey.

The International league, which didn't go to great pains last year to deny that the bars were up against ex-Fed players as far as it was concerned, is said by tact, consent has agreed to lift the ban. There will be no discrimination this year—granting there ever was—in the International league on account of a player's past. He can deliver the goods, is willing to play for ready money, and is open to engagement he can get a job and no questions asked, as they say when some one steals your dog and you advertise to get it back.

George Gibson, who refused to report to the New York Giants when transferred to them by the Pirates on waivers last summer, has concluded he wants to get back into the game and has asked John McGraw to give him a chance as coach of battery men. He wants to report to Marlin early and get in shape for the season.

Scotty Chestnut, who was an umpire in the International league last year, and before that in the Southern league, announces that he has given up the game and accepted a position as traveling salesman. Some people are so mean as to say Chestnut missed his calling when he did not take up vaudeville.

Manager Fred Mitchell believes

BOLAND MAY BE ONE BEST BET OF TIGERS

Bernie Boland.

Bernie Boland, who worked as the chief relief pitcher of the Detroit Tigers last year, is being regarded as one of the team's best pitching hopes for next season.

Harry Wolter can do a real come back and that he will be a regular in the Cubs' infield next season. Wolter's bad leg, which put him out of the big show, is now said to be as good as ever. Frank Chance has written Mitchell, the former Yankee is sure to make good with the Cubs.

Orval Overall wants to try his hand against his old-time club, the Chicago Cubs, and announces from Visalia, Cal., that he will organize an all-star team to play the Mitchell on waivers last summer, he will be in Newark, N. J., this month, at the age of seventy-one years. One story credits him with having pitched the first no-hit no-run game, that being in Newark against a Chicago team on July 16, 1870. However that may be, he was a great pitcher in his day. He began his career with the Irvingtons, a professional club that played around New York city and after wards pitched for the New York Mutuals. He quit baseball in 1871.

KE-NO-SHE-EA CLUB'S ANNUAL GATHERING

Members Enjoyed a Vension Dinner at Sanford Soverhill's Residence Last Evening.

On Tuesday evening the annual meeting of the Ke-No-She-Ea club, which owns some seventy acres of land at Pickerel lake in Forest county, one of the choicest hunting and fishing preserves in Northern Wisconsin, was held at the residence of Sanford Soverhill on Washington street. A most delicious vension dinner, served in courses was enjoyed and then followed the annual election of directors and officers for the coming year. This was followed by an evening spent in story telling, music, tales of the famous camp which has entertained so many famous men. Ke-No-She-Ea means pickerel in the Indian language and the club owns two large buildings for sleeping; one eighty by twenty and the other a two story structure twenty by thirty, with barns, ice houses, boat houses and equipment. The property is located almost on division line between Langlade and Forest county although the club house is in Forest county. Those present were Sanford Soverhill, James A. Fathers, Edward Parker, H. L. Hoard, Ft. Atkinson; Harry Carter, J. J. Schneider, Harry Wood, R. C. Townley, Thomez, Sam Tail, P. J. Duln and Charles Valentine. The directors elected were Edward Parker, William Appleby and Sanford Soverhill. These in turn elected William Appleby president and James Fathers secretary and treasurer. One of the amusing features of the evening was the song composed by H. L. Hoard on the host's experience while hunting a wounded doe through the brush while minus his nether garments and holding onto the wounded beast's tail.

number from here will witness the game. Monday night the present conference leaders will clash with the Gophers, at Minneapolis.

LAVENDER TRADED TO PHILADELPHIA

Cub Pitcher Switched in Deal Which Sends Al Demaree to Chicago.

—Major to Open April 11.

Jimmy Lavender, Chicago National league team sensation of two seasons ago, but only mediocre in his pitching last year, has been sent to the Philadelphia Athletics by the Cubs, for 1917 and Al Demaree, newsy cartoonist as well as something of a hurler, has gone to the Cubs, according to the announcement yesterday.

According to dispatches from Philadelphia, Joe Bush and Wally Schang will be dropped by Connie Mack this season. National and American leagues a joint session at New York, announced yesterday that the major league openings would be on April 11.

The Price of Peace.

"I quarreled with my wife yesterday, and we haven't spoken since."

"Why don't you make up?"

"I'm going to. All I'm worried about now is the indemnity."—Boston Transcript.

GIRLS WANTED FOR LIGHT EMPLOYMENT

We have arranged to place several new machines in our modern factory and require the services of some extra girls. Any girl desiring a position in this factory will find here a most desirable place to work. The State Factory Inspector has been loud in his praise of the excellence of our working conditions. The building is new, fireproof, sanitation is featured throughout, the work rooms are flooded with light, the air is fresh and pure at all times. The work required is light and easy.

We have always been careful in the selection of our employees, the moral character of the girls working here now, is of the best. Many of our girls have been with us for a number of years and are making good wages.

We would now be pleased to receive some applications to fill the new places.

BED TIME TALES

Father Beaver Misses Redhead

If you search both far and wide, Have a care before you roam! Things you search for sometimes hide Very close to home.

He heard Tommy Jay scolding and teasing; he heard the chickadee calling brightly; he heard the dainty goldfinch, the song sparrow and one late robin. "There!" he said.

While the woods' people were busy laying in their winter supplies and setting their houses in order for the long cold season, they had little time to notice the friends about them. To be sure, the squirrels and birds had an occasional playtime, though never a long one; but the beavers and muskrats had not even that much. They tended strictly to the business at hand and gave no time to play or friendly calls.

But such good planners are these same beavers that they are always ready for the winter before the winter comes. So they always have a little vacation in between the getting-ready work and the winter's cold. Nothing like being ahead of time is there?

On the first morning after everything was ready, and every single thing that Father and Mother Beaver could think of was done, Father Beaver sat at the side of the bank of Crooked Creek and enjoyed the sunrise. If you've ever noticed how beautiful the sun is as it comes up, late and rises on an autumn morning, you will know just how much Father Beaver enjoyed the sight.

"Aren't you coming in to get some rest?" asked Mother Beaver from the door of the home; you see, she knew how Father Beaver had been working and she thought he would be tired.

Father Beaver, "I'm going to rest here. I'm going to stay here till I have heard all the birds sing. I've been too busy to hear music, these many days."

So Mother Beaver went on about her business and Father Beaver listened for his bird friends.

Make Every Layer A Winter Payer

Blatchford's "Fill the Basket" Egg Mash Rapidly Increases the Egg Lay

The average hen, as fed on the farm, lays from 60 to 90 eggs per year. Fed on Blatchford's "Fill the Basket" Egg Mash, she should lay from 175 to 250 a year. Profits are correspondingly larger.

The cost per hundred eggs rather than the cost of feed is the basis of profits, which is the reason for the use of Blatchford's "Fill the Basket" Egg Mash.

Blatchford's "Fill the Basket" Egg Mash furnishes the surplus nourishment required for the formation of eggs—hence the hen lays during the winter just as naturally as during the summer.

It contains nothing but what is agreeable to the hen system —viz., milk substitutes—no drugs.

Sold in 25-pound and 100-pound bags.

Necessary to Every Poultry Yard

Every poultry yard should be properly enclosed with neat, effective and durable poultry fence.
This not only keeps the poultry out of places where they will do damage and keeps varmints away from the poultry, but it is also needed to handle the poultry to the best advantage.
Why get along with short-lived, flimsy, unsatisfactory netting, when you can get a real fence that is poultry tight for a little more money.

We can show you the greatest variety of thoroughly good poultry and garden fences, both heavy and medium weight, standard and extra close mesh.

We handle the well-known and justly popular Apex line of fence materials, and are in a position to take the best care of your wants in field fences,
poultry fences, lawn
fences, gates of all kinds, fence posts, and other
poultry supplies.

The fence shown here
is the extra close mesh
Apex Special Poultry Fence. This fence has stays every three inches instead of every four or six inches. It is designed for the man who wants a poultry fence of the greatest strength and closest mesh. No other fence is quite equal to it.

This fence costs a little more than the standard styles carried by this store, but the difference is not much on the cost of a poultry yard, and it is worth the price. You can no doubt save a little money by purchasing your fencing early this spring.
